Privacy Law Compliancy Solutions

Notifiable Data Breach changes to the Australian Privacy Laws introduced an obligation to notify individuals whose personal information is involved in a data breach that is likely to result in serious harm. This notification must include recommendations about the steps individuals should take in response to the breach. The Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC) must also be notified of eligible data breaches.

Our consultants will work closely with you and your staff in order to develop a tailored and phased privacy law compliance strategy and ensure that you are effectively protecting against the loss of sensitive and personal company and staff related data.
